ANNUAL REPORT
Social Security Advisory Board
We are pleased to publish the 2015 Annual Report of the Social Security Advisory Board. The report provides an overview of the Board’s work in 2015. The Board’s mission is to advise the President, Congress, and the Commissioner of Social Security on matters of policy and administration of the Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance (OASDI) and the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) programs. In 2015, the Board worked closely with the Social Security Administration (SSA) and other stakeholders to identify areas for improvement and to publish recommendations. We are grateful to Acting Commissioner Carolyn Colvin, SSA employees, congressional staff, representatives of other government agencies, and the many experts who met with us throughout the year.

Major publications the Board released in 2015 include the Board’s annual SSI statement (which is also an appendix to SSA’s Annual Report of the SSI Program), an issue brief on the Single Decision Maker (SDM) pilot, and a position paper on Windfall Elimination Provision (WEP). The Board also commissioned an independent technical panel review of the methods used by SSA actuaries to assess the financial status of the Social Security trust funds.

The Board’s SSI statement encouraged SSA to review the administratively burdensome process it uses to determine and then monitor in-kind support and maintenance (ISM) for SSI recipients. The issue brief on SDM noted that SSA set up a pilot program without a model for evaluation, making it difficult to assess its effectiveness. The Board’s position paper on WEP proposed replacing the current formula with one utilizing actual earnings data as SSA will have complete earning records, including earnings not covered by Social Security, beginning in 2017. Finally, the Board received the results of its independent technical panel in September. The Technical Panel on Methods and Assumptions concluded that the assumptions of the Trustees and the methods of the Office of the Chief Actuary were reasonable, but suggested several ways to improve these projections and to communicate them more effectively.

In 2015, the Board launched a multi-year review of SSA’s representative payee program. SSA projects the need for representative payees among retirees will increase by almost 50 percent between 2013 and 2025. The Board met with SSA several times to assess the agency’s capacity to oversee this program now and in the future. In October, SSA hosted a representative payee symposium for Board members and various agency components involved in the representative payee program. The event provided background to Board members regarding processes and issues. In 2015, the Board saw yet again the importance of gaining input directly from SSA’s employees working in field and hearing offices, and in the regional offices, as well as personnel in Disability Determination Services (DDS) offices. In February, the Board met with DDS staff in Fairfax, Virginia to gather information about the disability evaluation process. And in March, the Board traveled to New York and met with SSA executives, members of management, and field staff.

Selected Acronyms

- ALJ: Administrative Law Judge
- DDS: Disability Determination Service
- DMF: Death Master File
- EDR: Electronic Death Reporting
- ISM: In-Kind Support and Maintenance
- NBER: National Bureau Of Economic Research
- OASDI: Old-Age and Survivors Disability Insurance
- OPM: Office of Personnel Management
- SDM: Single Decision Maker
- SSA: Social Security Administration
- SSDI: Social Security Disability Insurance
- SSI: Supplemental Security Income
- WEP: Windfall Elimination Provision
These visits allow the Board to receive direct feedback about how policy changes are communicated from headquarters and the challenges faced by employees providing “front line” service to the public. In New York, the Board also met with private disability insurers and legal aid staff to gain outside perspective about disability evaluations and resource and asset issues in the SSI program. This input is invaluable to the Board’s understanding of the program and its administration. SSA’s disability workload at the end of fiscal year 2015 included 1.1 million claims pending at the hearings level, with an average wait time of 526 days. The Bipartisan Budget Act of 2015 required the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) to create a new register of administrative law judges (ALJs) for SSA to use in hiring, as one way to address the aging disability caseload.

SSA continues to face significant challenges, including long-term solvency questions and staff shortages, which likely contribute to lengthy service delays to the public. Improved systems technology would allow SSA to provide more online services and additional service delivery options. Data integration will eliminate the need for employees to make the same entries into different databases, improving efficiency and accuracy. It is vital that the agency focus on providing the best possible service to the public as the Social Security programs provide vital income for millions of Americans. Per our charge, we look forward to continuing to provide pertinent analyses and advice on SSA’s policies and operations.

Jagadeesh Gokhale

Jagadeesh Gokhale is the Director of Special Projects at Penn Wharton Public Policy Initiative (Penn Wharton PPI). Prior to joining PPI, Dr. Gokhale was a senior fellow at the Cato Institute. Earlier he worked at the American Enterprise Institute as a visiting scholar (2003), the Treasury Department as a consultant (2002), and the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland as a senior economic advisor (1990-2003). An economist by training, his main research fields are macro and public economics with a special focus on the effects of fiscal policy on future generations. In 2008, he served as a member of the Task Force on Sustainability Issues for the Federal Accounting Standards Advisory Board. Dr. Gokhale has written extensively on policy issues including Social Security and Medicare reform, national saving, private insurance, financial planning, wealth inequality, generational accounting, and public intergenerational transfers and he has testified several times before Congress on these topics. He has published several papers in the American Economic Review, Journal of Economic Perspectives, Quarterly Journal of Economics, Review of Economics and Statistics, and in publications of the National Bureau of Economic Research and the Cleveland Federal Reserve; in the US Budget report’s Analytical Perspectives; and in newspapers and online media such as the Wall Street Journal, The Financial Times, the Washington Post, American Spectator, and Forbes. Dr. Gokhale is a co-author of Fiscal and Generational Imbalances that revealed the fiscal imbalance to be in the tens of trillions of dollars. In 2010, he published Social Security: A Fresh Look at Policy Alternatives, which constructs a different method for determining solvency of the Social Security trust funds. First term of office: November 2009 to September 2015. Current term of Office: October 2015 to September 2021.

Bernadette Franks-Ongoy

Bernadette Franks-Ongoy is the executive director for Disability Rights Montana, an organization that protects and advocates for the human, legal, and civil rights of Montanans with disabilities. She manages and oversees the day-to-day activities of Disability Rights Montana and sets the tone to ensure that the organization’s mission to advance dignity, equality, and self-determination is being accomplished. Ms. Franks-Ongoy says, “I was raised by a mother with a disability and a father who did not realize he was a feminist.” She lived in an accessible house before the Americans with Disability Act was the law. Her mother’s wheelchair could access every room. “After all mom needed to have access to my brothers and sisters rooms with her wheelchair.” Ms. Franks-Ongoy is the youngest of eight siblings including a brother with a mental illness. Ms. Franks-Ongoy grew up in the sugar plantation town of Waialua, Hawaii. With the support of Job Corps, Social Security, and other financial aid, she attended and graduated from Chaminade University with a Bachelor of Science degree in criminal justice and a Bachelor of Arts degree in sociology. She graduated from the University Of San Diego School Of Law in 1983. Her past legal experience includes: law clerk for the First Judicial Circuit Court in Hawaii, founding executive director of the Hawaii Bar Foundation, Deputy Corporation Counsel, city and county of Honolulu, and attorney and director of programs for the Protection and Advocacy System in Hawaii. She is licensed to practice law in Hawaii and with the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. Ms. Franks-Ongoy has served as president of the National Disability Rights Network and most recently was a member of Montana’s Equal Justice Task Force. Current term of office: January 2013 to Visit to Disability Determination Services - February 24: The Board traveled to Fairfax, Virginia to meet with DDS staff and regional management who traveled down from Region III headquarters in Philadelphia. Local staff demonstrated a real-time evaluation of an application for Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) benefits and answered questions about operations of a DDS.

New York City Visit - March 23-24: The Board held a series of meetings in New York with Region II SSA executives, management, field office staff, and other stakeholders. The Board toured a Social Security card processing center in Brooklyn. The first card center opened in Brooklyn in November 2002, three more have opened up in the New York region, and ten more are now located throughout the country. These card centers were created after the tragedy of September 11, 2001, in order to enhance public service and strengthen the integrity of the Social Security Number.

Technical Panel Presentation - September 25: The Board hosted an event to announce the findings of the Technical Panel on Assumptions and Methods at the National Press Club. The panel chair introduced its findings and recommendations, and panel members spoke about individual topics and responded to questions from invited guests.

National Bureau of Economic Research Summer Institute - July 21-22: Several Board staff attended sessions of the National Bureau of Economic Research (NBER) Summer Institute, where scholars presented their latest research on aging and Social Security related issues.

Jagadeesh Gokhale Reappointed - October 5: The Senate nominated Jagadeesh Gokhale to serve his second term on the Board. Mr. Gokhale previously served on the Board from November 19, 2009, until his term expired at the end of September 2015.

Representative Payee Symposium - October 23: SSA hosted a representative payee symposium for Board members and staff. The Board was briefed by several SSA components about their roles in the representative payee programs and members asked questions about the challenges facing the representative payee program.

Board chair Henry Aaron addresses the Technical Panel members and audience during the public presentation to announce findings of the report.

Board publications can be accessed at: http://ssab.gov/Our-Work
In June, the Board published The Single Decision Maker Pilot: A 16 Year Flight and Still No Clear Landing. The issue brief addressed SSA’s SDM pilot program that was established in 1999 and eventually expanded to include 20 states. SDM authority allowed disability examiners in specified states to issue favorable decisions in certain types of cases without a medical consultant’s signature. The concept was to reduce processing time for cases that were likely to be favorable and allow medical consultants to concentrate on the more difficult claims.

Meeting topics for 2015 included assigning representative payees for foster children receiving SSI; SSA’s expansion of cooperative disability investigation units; SSA’s Vision 2025 report; data exchange concerns; the agency backlog plan to address the disability workload at the hearings level, entitled A Plan for Compassionate And Responsive Service or CARES; and concerns about the hiring process of ALJs through OPM. The Board heard from SSA Executives and other experts regarding long-term trust fund solvency projections; the need to modernize SSA systems and the status and effectiveness of the Disability Case Processing System a multi-year and multi-million dollar effort to integrate multiple state computer legacy systems into a single system. The Board also consulted with specialists on project topics, such as WEP; the SDM pilot; representative payees, and the Death Master File (DMF).

Single Decision Maker Issue Brief

In the fall, Congress passed the Bipartisan Budget Act of 2015, which included a provision stating that the “Commissioner must make every reasonable effort to ensure that a qualified physician, psychiatrist or psychologist has completed the medical portion of the case review.” This language ended the SDM pilot. SSA was given a deadline of October 2016 to effectuate the change.

SSA allowed each DDS pilot site to design its own process for assigning cases to examiners with the SDM authority. Different components within SSA that reviewed the effectiveness of the pilot had some inconsistent findings. The Board found that the pilot design did not effectively capture data to make evaluation meaningful. The Board could not recommend either the expansion or elimination of the SDM program. Instead, the Board recommended that SSA put a comprehensive research design and evaluation plan in place prior to initiating any more pilots or demonstration projects.
Supplemental Security Income Statement on In-Kind Support and Maintenance

Every year, the Board is offered the opportunity to include a statement about the SSI program in SSA's Annual Report of the Supplemental Security Income Program to the President and Congress. This year, the Board commented on the analysis that is used in setting SSI payment levels. The Board noted that there was strong evidence that the current process is administratively burdensome, overly complicated, and leads to many improper payments. The Board recommended a thorough reexamination of the way in which the agency adjusts benefits for ISM. Determining whether an SSI benefit should be reduced because of non-cash support involves delving into personal living situations and making adjustments whenever there is a change in circumstances. All of this administrative time results in changes to benefit amounts in approximately nine percent of SSI cases.

Failure to calculate changes timely and accurately are a large source of improper payments. The amount of overpayments have remained fairly steady, but underpayments have been increasing at a much faster rate. Since SSI is a needs-based program, the increasing number of underpayments is of particular concern. In its statement, the Board urged rigorous evidence-based research to find simpler ways to administer the SSI program, including a cost analysis to determine whether the savings in ISM reductions is worth the cost of managing the improper payments that result and the cost of maintaining policies and procedures to determine ISM reductions. The Board also noted that SSA needs to investigate the causes for a recent upward trend in improper underpayments.

Committee for a Responsible Federal Budget Conference

On August 4, Board member Alan Cohen participated in a discussion session on the SSDI program sponsored by the Committee for a Responsible Federal Budget as part of its McCrery-Pomeroy SSDI Solutions Initiative. The initiative solicited a broad spectrum of proposals for improving the SSDI program. The resulting 12 papers were presented at the SSDI Solutions Conference attended by several Board members and staff.

As a member of the closing panel, Mr. Cohen addressed the hearings backlog and identified this as being a result of inadequate funding. He indicated that there is a demand for more staff and resources. Mr. Cohen also expressed his support for a national Medicaid buy-in program with “generous income and asset limits.” Mr. Cohen expressed his opposition to disability benefit cuts, as benefits are the sole source of income for a majority of SSDI beneficiaries, and he stated that without payroll tax reallocation, the agency would have to cut benefits by 20 percent.
Windfall Elimination Provision

In October, the Board published a position paper, The Windfall Elimination Provision: It’s Time to Correct the Math. The Board’s recommendation was for Congress to replace WEP for new retirees who had a portion of their careers in work not covered by Social Security. SSA began collecting data on noncovered earnings back in 1982 and by 2017, 35 years of data will be available—the amount necessary for SSA to perform more accurate benefit calculations for noncovered wages. SSA will then have the earnings data to calculate a benefit proportional to covered and noncovered earnings. The Board recommended that beginning in 2017, Congress change the current formula to one that uses actual earnings data.
Technical Panel on Assumptions & Methods

Every four years, the Board commissions a panel of expert economists, demographers, and actuaries to review the assumptions of the Social Security Trustees and the methods the Office of the Chief Actuary used in projecting the finances of the Social Security trust funds. The 2015 Technical Panel on Assumptions and Methods was chaired by Alicia H. Munnell of Boston College and included economists Katharine G. Abraham (University of Maryland), David Autor (Massachusetts Institute of Technology), Jeffrey R. Brown (University of Illinois), Peter Diamond (Massachusetts Institute of Technology), and Claudia Goldin (Harvard University); actuaries Sam Gutterman (consulting actuary) and Joe Silvestri (Government Accountability Office); and demographers Ronald R. Rindfuss (University of North Carolina) and Michael Teitelbaum (Harvard Law School). The panel held two meetings in 2014, but conducted the majority of its work in 2015, meeting six times and issuing its final report and recommendations, 2015 Technical Panel on Assumptions and Methods, in September.

On September 25th, the Board convened a meeting with the technical panel to discuss the panel’s findings. Also invited were staff representing the various trustees and other individuals from agencies such as the Congressional Budget Office and Government Accountability Office. The panel concluded that although they had some disagreements with the trustees and actuaries, the overall approach adopted by the trustees and the methods and assumptions employed by the Office of the Chief Actuary in the annual projections of OASDI finances were reasonable.

The panel recommended that the trustees assume lower rates of fertility, faster rates of improvement in life expectancy, and lower interest rates over the long run. If adopted together, these three changes to the current assumptions would increase the currently projected 75-year deficit by about 28 percent. The Panel also recommended several variations for presenting the relationship between earnings and benefits (including measures of “replacement rates”) and alternative ways of presenting the uncertainty of projections in the annual Trustees’ report.
Administrative Law Judges

SSA has an unprecedented number of disability claims pending at the hearings level. The length of time it takes to get a decision at this level is also increasing, and SSA reported to the Board that it needs to hire hundreds of new ALJs in the next few years to address this critical workload. SSA executives met with the Board and outlined the current process, cost, timeframe and need for interagency cooperation with OPM, which announces, tests and prepares a register of candidates for agencies hiring ALJs to consider. The Board Chair enlisted the efforts of the Administrative Conference of the United States, Treasury, and the Office of Management and Budget to tackle the problems in the ALJ hiring process. Board members Henry Aaron (chair) and Lanhee Chen authored an article in Politico, "How to fix the backlog of disability claims" to draw attention to the problem.

Death Master File

The DMF was created in 1980 when Congress required SSA to make records of deceased Social Security number holders available to the public under the Freedom of Information Act. This ruling resulted from a lawsuit, Perholtz v. Ross, filed in 1978 against SSA, in an effort to gain access to the death information in the agency’s files. Currently, the agency provides a more complete DMF extract to specific federal agencies for assistance in meeting their mission, and also to the Department of Commerce, which manages the sale and release of the information to private industry.

The DMF is an extract of death information from SSA’s electronic database containing Social Security numbers assigned to individuals since 1936. It includes, when available, the deceased individual’s Social Security number, first name, middle name, surname, date of birth, and date of death, and contains beneficiary and non-beneficiary death data that has been reported from states and other sources. SSA verifies death when the report pertains to a Social Security beneficiary. It does not verify non-beneficiary reports of death. However, it will share these reports with other specified agencies that Congress has indicated should receive the information. All releases of DMF information include a disclaimer cautioning that not all death data included in the DMF has been verified, yet there have been several news reports about live individuals being reported as deceased in the DMF, which have brought public and congressional scrutiny to SSA’s management of the data.

In June, the Board met with Inspector General Patrick O’Carroll. Mr. O’Carroll explained how inaccurate data can end up on the DMF and how this could potentially lead to improper payments. Marianna LaCanfora, Assistant Deputy Commissioner for the Office of Retirement and Disability Policy, also discussed the DMF and its complexities. Ms. LaCanfora stated the accuracy of the database is improving as more states adopt an electronic death reporting (EDR) system. She further noted that SSA constantly updates and corrects information in the DMF, but if external users do not purchase regular updates of the file, they do not receive the corrections. That failure to purchase updates and to continually correct misinformation is perceived as one major cause of inaccurate death data having a long-term effect on the financial lives of those living people who mistakenly appear on the DMF. The Board also met with Patricia Potrzebowski, National Association of Public Health Statistics and Information Systems, to learn more about EDR and her organization’s role in representing state vital record agencies and her recommendations to improve data accuracy. The Board will undertake the DMF issue in 2016.
Representative Payee Meetings & Symposium

In 2015, the Board kicked off a comprehensive examination of SSA’s representative payee program. It met with representatives from SSA’s Office of Retirement and Disability Policy and Office of Quality Improvement to discuss the agency’s procedures for monitoring representative payees. The Board met with executives from SSA’s Office of Inspector General to discuss its recent audits, investigations, and challenges related to the representative payee program. The Board also heard from members of the National Council of Social Security Management Associations, which represents SSA field office managers and supervisors; officials from the Government Accountability Office; and the Department of Veterans Affairs.

In October, SSA hosted a day-long symposium for the Board at its headquarters in Baltimore, Maryland. The meeting provided the Board with an important opportunity to interact with the many different SSA components involved in the representative payee program. The symposium featured background on the historical, legal, operational, and policy perspectives of the program. Other sessions focused on legislative history, demographics, capability, payee selection, monitoring, payee workloads, and a demonstration of the systems used by SSA to account for payees and keep track of misuse allegations. The Board will continue its research on the representative payee program in 2016.

Website Redesign

In 2015, the Board launched a website redesign that will be completed in 2016. The new website will provide a more user-friendly interface and will allow for dynamic search features. The new website will prominently display key information, documents will be more accessible, and updates will be easier to implement. The website will also incorporate design guidelines from the US Digital Service for improving federal websites.
The Board regularly receives correspondence and phone calls from the public about Social Security. As part of its broader mission to serve and educate the public, the Board responds to and tracks those communications. Board staff uses these contacts to gather feedback about issues facing the public in its interaction with the Social Security programs. While the Board communicates that it is independent from SSA and cannot resolve issues on individual claims or access case files, staff answer questions, give general information about the claims process, and will try to refer individuals to the appropriate SSA component or congressional office. In urgent need circumstances, Board staff will alert SSA of an issue. In 2015, Board staff tracked 135 contacts with the public, including letters, faxes, emails, and phone calls. Top reasons for contacting the Board included 1) complaints about SSA service; 2) questions about pending cases and benefits; and 3) needing service from SSA.
Inquiries

SSA Service Complaints. SSA service complaints encompass a broad category of dissatisfaction. Complaints sometimes arose after confrontation with SSA staff. More often, the public expressed dissatisfaction with the timeliness of service—including long wait times on the phone, lengthy processing times for benefit payments, and disability decisions at the hearings level. Other complaints allege incorrect determinations regarding benefits.

Case Status. Members of the public often contact the Board because they have been waiting months for SSA to process an award claim for benefits. Individuals want to know when they will begin receiving monthly benefits or their lump sum back payment and are often exasperated at the lengthy wait and lack of information provided by SSA. While hearing wait times are well publicized, the public occasionally must wait additional months, even after being awarded benefits due to additional administrative actions that need to be completed.

Need SSA Service. The Board receives frequent calls from the public seeking help contacting or receiving a service from SSA, such as obtaining a new Social Security card, accessing case files, or receiving information about filing a claim or appealing a decision. Some mistakenly contact the Board instead of SSA, while others contact the Board after finding SSA unhelpful. Based on the situation, Board staff will provide referral information.

Benefit Eligibility Questions. Individuals often contact the Board to inquire about their eligibility for a program. While Board staff cannot answer specific questions about an individual’s eligibility, they can provide some basic information about program eligibility requirements, assist in answering general questions, and direct people to the section of the SSA website that discusses eligibility requirements.

Benefit Reduction or Overpayment. Board staff often hear from individuals after benefit reductions or terminations. Most callers are requesting a detailed explanation since SSA notices are often hard to understand. As most cases are highly technical, callers are typically referred to the local field office or SSA’s toll-free number.

Other. The other category encompasses all other types of complaints not necessarily related to programmatic issues.

Medicare. The Board occasionally receives inquiries concerning Medicare eligibility as it relates to receipt of Social Security benefits. These questions are typically directed to the Medicare hotline.

Social Security Legislation. The public sometimes contacts the Board about Social Security legislation they would like to see enacted, including changes to WEP, Government Pension Offset, and the annual Cost-of-Living-Adjustment.

Work Programs. Several members of the public contacted the Board with questions about Social Security return-to-work programs in 2015, including questions about Ticket-to-Work and how working would affect their benefits. Staff answered general questions and directed individuals to the appropriate SSA website for more information.
The Board benefited from the expertise of several SSA detailees in 2015. Teron Gorham from Office of Central Operations/Office of Earnings and International Operations was on detail to the Board from May to September. Jenn Rigger from the Office of Research, Demonstration, and Employment Support and Teresa Pfender from the Office of Appellate Operations came to the Board in March. Ms. Pfender finished her detail in September, while Ms. Rigger joined the Board staff permanently in September, along with Ms. Anita Grant, who detailed to the board in late 2014 and also became permanent in September 2015.

Jenn Rigger joined permanent Board staff in September 2015. Ms. Rigger currently serves as a senior policy advisor.
Fellowships, Research Assistants, and Intern Program

Every year, the Board brings on fellows, research assistants and interns to conduct research, perform administrative functions, and provide fresh insights into the Social Security programs. In 2015, two fellows from the National Academy of Social Insurance, Amber Davis and Claire Jensen, worked on projects during the summer. Ms. Davis worked on the SSI Children’s report and Ms. Jensen assisted with research on an assortment of topics, including the representative payee program, electronic health records, ALJ hiring, and the definition of disability. As a summer intern, Carlie Augustin assisted in researching ALJ hiring, the SSI children’s program, and SSA’s definition of disability from May until August. Ms. Augustin also supported staff members with office administration. Intern Tony Marealle served as the administrative assistant from March until December.

New Staff

Caitlyn Tateishi joined the Board in April 2015. She was hired as administrative support, but quickly began taking on additional responsibilities including budget execution and drafting Board reports.
